I Am Going To The Victoria Tower Garden!

A Step-by-Step Guide On How To Visit This Lovely Park.

by Brett Bigham

On the south end of the Houses of Parliament is Victoria Tower. It looms above a beautiful park along the River Thames.

This park is called the Victoria Tower Park. Let's go visit!

The park has several memorials and statues. This is a famous statue by Auguste Rodin. It is called "The Burghers of Calais."

This is a very popular statue by one of the most famous sculptors of all time. Many people come to visit. This is a tour group from China learning about the statue.

This is a great place to take pictures. You can stand by the statue but do not climb on it!

This is the Emmaline and Christabel Pankhurst Memorial.

The statue is of Emmaline Pankhurst and made of bronze.

People love to come to this park on a sunny day. It is OK to sit on the grass!

The park is next to the Thames. This is a nice place to walk on a hot day. The trees make very nice shade.

You have to be safe by the river. Do not climb on the wall. This man is doing a great job following the rules. He is standing by the wall but he does not climb on it.

There are benches along the Thames where you can sit and rest. These people needed to take a break so they are sitting in the shade.

What do you do when you need to take a break?

This is the Buxton Memorial Fountain. You can walk inside!

At the south end of the park is a playground!

I hope you have a terrific time visiting Victoria Tower Gardens! The Westminster is the closest tube station.

Ability Guidebooks are step-by-step instructions on how to access community destinations. For many people with autism and neuro-diversity, new situations can cause stress and discomfort. Ability Guidebooks help prepare people for new experiences. This is why I emphasize the places to sit and areas to relax.

This book will also help general ed teachers prepare their young students for a visit the Victoria Tower Gardens!
